

Disclosures

Jeffco Schools is providing the below collection of community resources in hopes that it might prove useful to members of our school community. It is intended to be an assembly of resources gathered in one place for convenient review and access.

These resources are being offered by a diverse array of government agencies, non-profit companies, faith-based entities, and other organizations that are not part of the District. Therefore, the District is making the following disclaimers:

- The District does not recommend, endorse, guarantee, or favor any organization over any other.
- Users are advised to conduct their own research on each resource.
- Other resources and organizations may exist in addition to those listed on this page. This is not an exhaustive or exclusive list.
- Services offered by the listed organizations, links to their web site, and information about the organizations may change over time.
